

INCOME CONSIDERED

Family incomes include the taxable earned and capital incomes, as well as tax-exempt incomes, of the service user and the person living in a marital or marriage-like relationship in the same household. If monthly incomes vary, the average monthly income for the last year will be considered. Taxable income may also include similar taxable incomes confirmed in the most recent taxation, adjusted by the percentages determined by the tax authority in the annual decisions on the calculation basis for advance withholding.

In addition to the child, the parents and other guardians living in the same household are included.
